Hong Kong 02 — What We Added

Additions only · Version as of Monday 2 November 2026 → today, 5 November 2026

01 New header message

A clearer value statement: “A journey into news discernment”, with the supporting line “Let’s read closely, think critically and share responsibly !” — now shown on phones as well as desktop.

02 Live Global Markets bar

A branded Global Markets strip that names every index, shows its value and colours the change green (up) or red (down), scrolling slowly and pausing on hover.

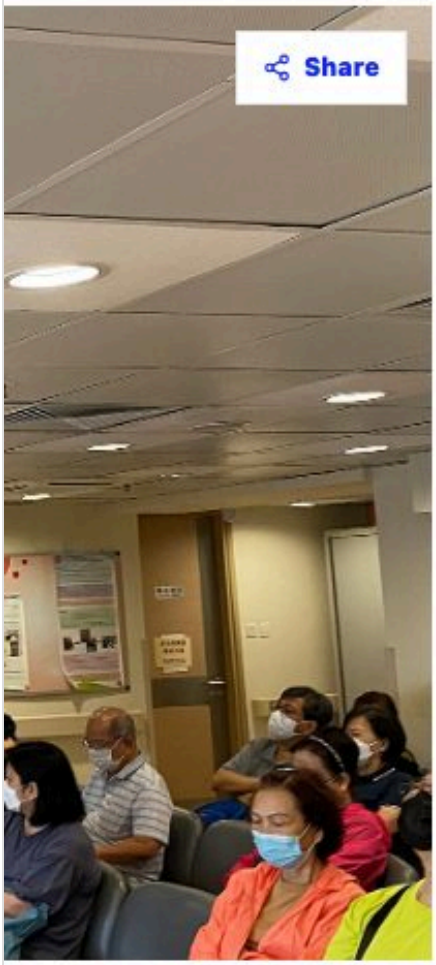

03 Top Story actions

The Top Story now has a Share button, a New ! badge, and a blue “Click to view article” button.

04 Story-card actions

Every preview card now carries a New ! badge with a sound-wave animation, a blue “Click to read the full article” button, a Share button, and a uniform height so the grid looks tidy.

05 Two-step share experience

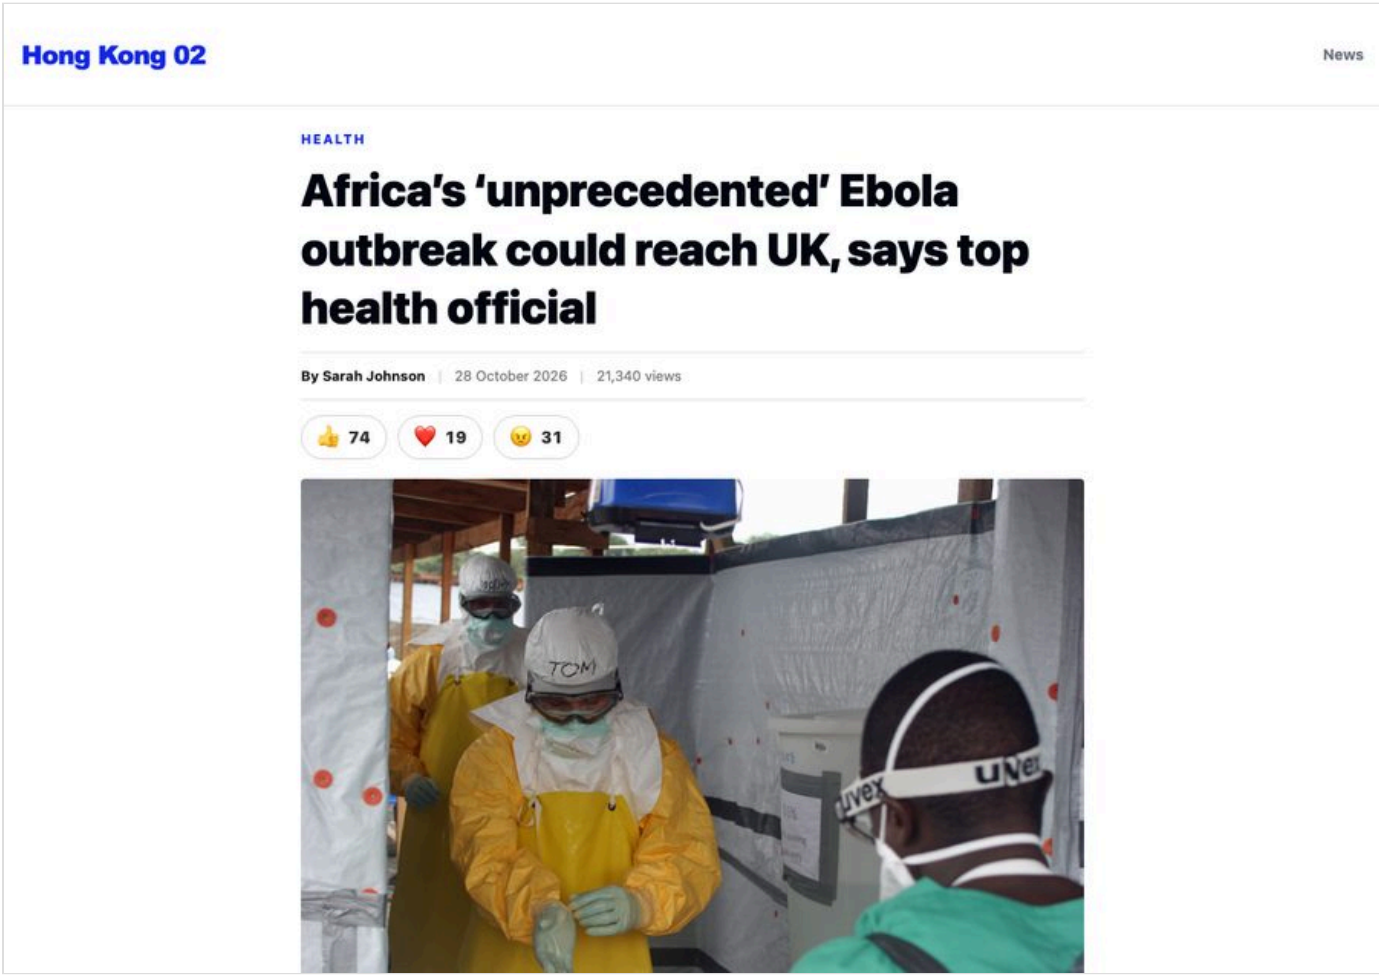

Sharing now starts with a confirmation (“Are you sure you want to share the article?”), then an AI literacy page with five points, then a “Click to see extra tips” page with the article-specific checks and Stop · Verify · Think — with a Back button.

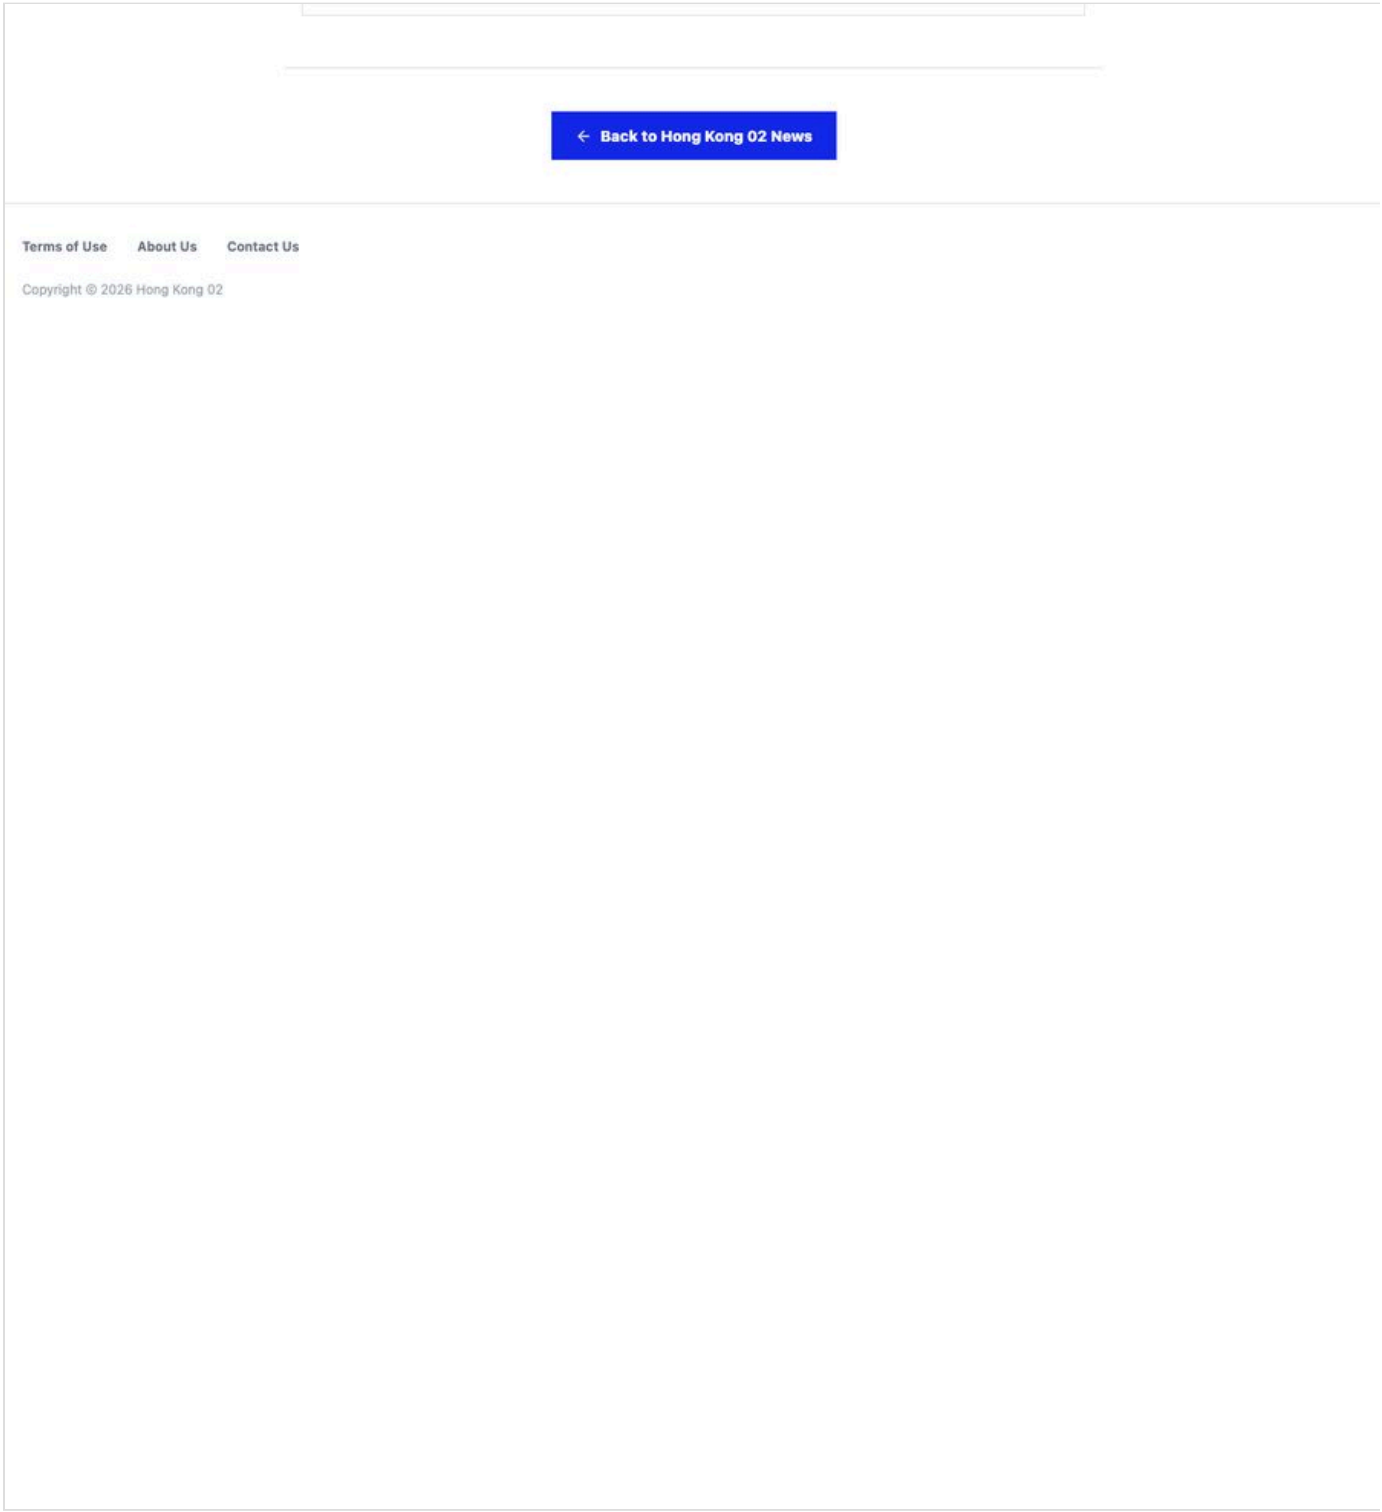

06 A real news story alongside the fakes

Added a genuine Guardian report on the Ebola outbreak, with a distinct real-news warning — “Yes this is a real new article from a local report !” — a reporter byline (Sarah Johnson) and verification reasoning.

07 Forum-style comment threads

Replaced repetitive comments with 304 natural, article-specific comments across the ten stories — reactions, questions, jokes, memes, mockery and people saying they will share.

08 One-minute idle reminder

If a reader does nothing for a minute without opening an article, a friendly prompt appears once: “Let’s explore some of the articles!”

10 Terms additions

Two new sections: Educational Simulation Disclosure and Media Literacy & Ethical Dilemmas, with the whole page rewritten into seven scannable sections.

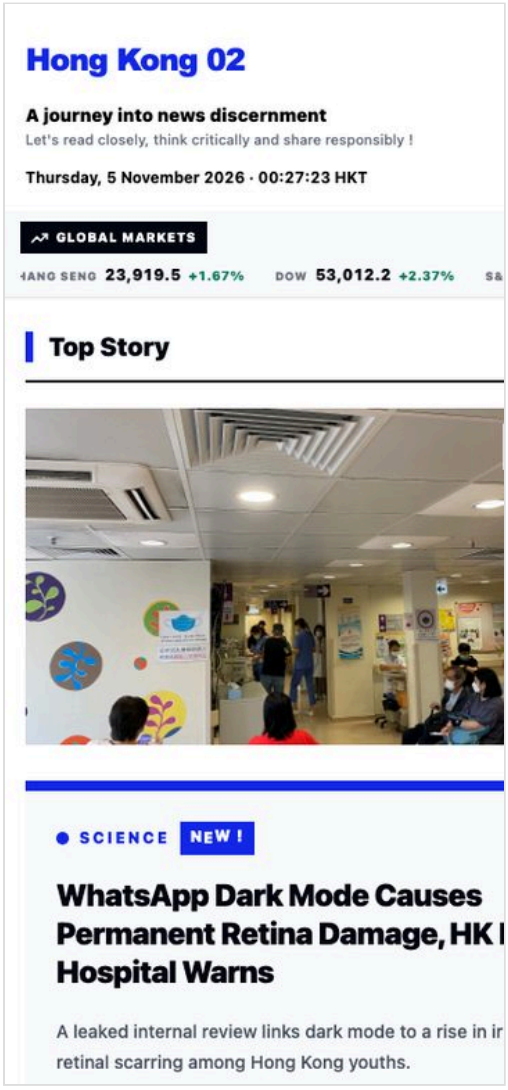

11 Footer disclaimer

Added the line: “All stories shown here are original fictional editorial content for this publication concept.”

12 Mobile support

Verified at 320, 360, 375, 390, 414 and 430 px: no horizontal scrolling, the header message visible, market names readable and every dialog fits the screen.

13 Live preview mode

A ?preview=1 mode was added for design review: the page auto-reloads within about two seconds whenever a site file changes, so changes can be watched live in the side-by-side browser.
